

ABSTRACT

A heat sink structure with embedded electronic components is proposed, wherein a plurality of recessed cavities are formed on a heat sink for embedding the electronic components and receiving at least one semiconductor chip therein. This arrangement enhances electric performance of a semiconductor package with the above heat sink structure and improves heat dissipating efficiency of the semiconductor package.

* * * * *